Tailor your conversations to your clients' needs

Approaches guide for businesses and individuals

Are you targeting the right prospects with the right conversation?

Whether you're helping a business owner or an individual, one thing is for sure — each client's needs require tailored solutions. Having a targeted approach makes it easy to begin talking about those unique needs and possible solutions. We make it easy for you to start the conversation, gather the facts and recommend solutions. And we're here any time you need to consult with us — before, during and after the sale.

In this guide:

Learn about who's a good prospect, value to the client, helpful resources and sales opportunities for each of the following approaches.

Business Valuation/Buy-Sell Review

Who's a good prospect?

- Buy-Sell Review:
 - › Any company with a buy-sell agreement not reviewed in last two years
 - › Any company with an operating agreement or partnership agreement that includes buy-sell provisions
- Informal Business Valuation:
 - › Manufacturing companies
 - › Construction companies
 - › Professional service-related companies (architects, healthcare systems, law firms, dentists, engineering firms, accounting firms, etc.)
 - › Profitable, growing businesses with gross revenues of $500,000 and above

Note: Some types of businesses are not good prospects for informal business valuations such as:

- Farms/ranches
- Businesses with commissions as its primary source of revenue
- Companies with gross revenue of less than $500,000

Value to the client

The Informal Business Valuation and Buy-Sell Review reports offer important information to business owners about the impact the value of their business and/or the state of their buy-sell agreement can have on many aspects of their financial future. And that, in turn, can lead to additional life (and disability) insurance sales.

 - › Collect a copy of existing buy-sell agreement.
 - › Collect the most recent three full years of company financials (income statements and balance sheets) or business tax returns.
 - › Ask about any existing insurance.

Insurance sales opportunities

- Key person life (and disability) insurance
- Business succession planning and buy-sell funding
- Key employee retention and retirement
- Legacy and estate planning

Business Needs Analysis

Who's a good prospect?

Any business — especially those that aren't a good candidate for the Informal Business Valuation service

Value to the client

Business owners often have numerous planning needs — some known and others unknown. This approach will help you identify solutions to address the financial needs of the business, the employees and the business owner(s).

- Legacy and estate planning

Business Owner Retirement

Who's a good prospect?

- Owners of for-profit businesses of all entity types including C corporations, S corporations, partnerships, LLCs or sole proprietorships
- Owners who want to use their business as a source of retirement income — from either a sale or other transition method
- Owners of businesses with strong financial integrity

Value to the client

These clients are in the unique position of owning a business, which can play a key role in their personal retirement. Depending on the value of the business, the strength of the buy-sell agreement and proper funding, the business can generate income during retirement — just like it has done through their working years. If rather than selling the business, they want to gift it to family and continue working, that's also possible with some careful planning.

Family Business Planning

Who's a good prospect?

Owners of a family-owned business (any entity type)

Value to the client

Among business owners with a succession strategy, the most popular plan is to leave the business to family.¹ Help family-owned businesses secure their future with a targeted planning approach. No matter the type of business, they likely have unique ownership transition needs.

Agribusiness

Who's a good prospect?

Owners of farms, ranches, or other agribusinesses — most often family-owned

Value to the client

No matter the type of farm — livestock, crops, orchards or something else — they have one thing in common: Most are family farms with unique ownership transition needs. They may have complicated estates, unconventional approaches to retirement and hopes that their legacy lives on. Life insurance can be a big part of the solution for these distinct planning needs.

Healthcare

Who's a good prospect?

- Owners or decision makers in healthcare organizations
- Physicians and other healthcare professionals

Value to the client

Healthcare organizations operate in a competitive employment market making planning even more important. Physicians and other medical professionals likely need help planning for retirement, wealth management, income protection and inheritance goals. You can help. Just as they work each day to help others live a healthy life, you are the dedicated professional they need to help them build financial health.

Property & Casualty

Who's a good prospect?

Mid-sized independent agencies

Value to the P&C firm

Property and casualty (P&C) agencies are often searching for new reasons to reach out to their existing clients. And they know that some of their customers have unfulfilled risk protection needs. So why aren't they offering to fill these needs? Well, without in-house experts on life and disability insurance — or retirement and business succession planning — they may not know how. That's where you come in. You can help P&C agencies deliver the additional products and services that will strengthen their customer relationships — and everyone's bottom line!

Individual Retirement with Life Insurance

Who's a good prospect?

- Have a need for life insurance coverage and are in good health
- Ages 30-55 with at least 10 years until retirement
- Earn at least $100,000 annually
- Limited by or have no access to a qualified plan and want to diversify their tax portfolio

Value to the client

The retirement income landscape is changing. There are fewer pension plans and much uncertainty about Social Security, tax legislation and market performance. Now, more than ever, saving for retirement is up to individuals. You can play a big role in helping pre-retirees get prepared and introduce life insurance as an option to supplement and diversify retirement income.

3 Power of 3

Who's a good prospect?

- Individuals
 - › Need life insurance
 - › Age 30-55 with at least 10 years until retirement
 - › In good health
 - › Annual income of $100,000 or more
 - › Limited by, or no access to, a qualified plan
 - › Seek to diversify tax portfolio
 - › Prime occupations: attorney, physician, engineer, architect
- Businesses
 - › C corporation, S corporation, partnership, LLC, non-governmental tax-exempt
 - › Want to recruit, reward and retain key employees
 - › Want to help solve a retirement income problem
 - › Need to supplement the business owner's retirement income

Value to the client

The "Power of 3" is an attractive combination of services and products for retirement income needs that allow you to shorten the underwriting process, give options to meet any risk tolerance and make automatic income simple.

Life Insurance Review

Who's a good prospect?

- Rated policies, where health improvements or underwriting liberalizations may offer new opportunity
- Cash-value policies that have been under-funded or heavily borrowed against
- Term insurance (particularly with larger face amounts) for possible conversion
- Term insurance that has been in force several years for conversion or potential replacement if it meets the clients' needs
- Clients whose financial or business situation has seemingly improved, or who have experienced a major life change
- Large cases in general that have been in force for some time
- Trust-owned life insurance policies
- Clients with sizeable annuity and/or qualified plan assets who are over age 60 and prosperous
- Business clients who have not had a recent review

Value to the client

The life insurance review package helps you get in front of more clients, provide a valuable, annual check-up and earn the opportunity to explore additional needs and solutions.

Life Insurance Awareness

Who's a good prospect?

Anyone who wants to protect the people they love when they can't be there anymore.

Value to the client

Increase your clients' awareness about how life insurance can help:

- Pay for funeral and final expenses
- Provide for lost income
- Pay off a mortgage or other debt
- Diversify savings
- Leave a legacy to charity or family
- Provide cash to settle an estate
- Provide an emergency fund in the event of a chronic illness

Workplace Financial Wellness

Who's a good prospect?

- Business clients with whom you have an existing business relationship
- Businesses with low turnover
- Businesses with 10 to 200 employees

Value to the client

Many employees worry about their finances, and this distraction may make them less productive, lower their morale and create other challenges for their employers. But with the Workplace Financial Wellness program, you can offer employees financial education and personalized assistance to get their financial lives on the right track.

College Funding with Life Insurance

With college costs on the rise each year, it's more important than ever for your clients to have a savings plan. While the primary purpose of life insurance is to provide a death benefit, it can help with college costs, too.

Helpful resources:

Legacy and Estate Planning

People with estates of all sizes share a common concern — making sure their estate is distributed to whom they want in the manner they want. You can help your clients have greater peace of mind by creating a plan to ensure their goals are met.

Helpful resources:

- Estate Planning Brochure (BB10061C)
- Estate Planning Questionnaire (BB6794)
- Estate Tax Calculator (BB10045)

Life Insurance as an Asset

Talk to your clients about additional uses of life insurance to adapt to future protection, accumulation and transfer needs. Adding life insurance to complement an existing financial portfolio addresses the need for death benefit protection as well as those seeking tax advantages, efficient wealth transfer, access to cash, and an attractive rate of return.

Risk Protection (Life/DI Combo)

Life and disability income (DI) insurance are essential to protecting incomes, loved ones and assets from unpredictable risks. With the right protection in place, your clients can build financial strategies in confidence. Like most Americans, income is needed to live day-to-day. There may be little or no money left after a premature death or disabling injury or illness.
